

Princess Marie of Greece Is Bride of Marine Officer

Sister of Prince Christopher Also Marries Outside Royal Circle.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

ATHENS, Dec. 29.—Another romantic marriage outside the charmed circle of royalty has taken place in the Greek ruling family. This time the principals in the love idyll are Princess Marie, Constantine's sister and widow of Grand Duke George Mikhailovich of Russia, and a captain of the Royal Marine, Pericles Tsomides.

Mystery surrounds the marriage, which has not been officially announced, and old friends of the Princess have conspired to suppress the news. It is known, however, that the wedding occurred in Wiesbaden. Marie took the captain during the return of the royal family from exile in 1920. He commanded the ship that brought them to Greece. The Princess had been deeply in love with the officer, and declared she would never wed any one else. But so long as Constantine remained in power the romance was suspended.

Constantine's latest fall meant freedom for his sister. The bridegroom is 42, four years younger than Marie, and belongs to an honorable Athenian family. He has no fortune, but a winning personality has made him popular in official circles. Marie, who is 35, is yielding to the impulses of her heart, the second of King George's children to marry outside the royal family. Marie's first marriage was with Prince Christopher, the husband of the former Mrs. William B. Leeds. Marie's elder daughter married a Russian nobleman, now impoverished. They are living in London.

W. B. LEEDS ARRIVING WITH PRINCESS XENIA

Will Join Prince Christopher and Anastasia Here.

AN American reunion of several members of the Greek royal family circle, foreshadowed by the arrival to-morrow by the Berengaria of Mr. William B. Leeds and his bride of a year, Princess Xenia, is expected to take place in New York. Prince Christopher and Princess Anastasia, at the Ambassador Hotel.

Two years ago the heir to the throne of the late William B. Leeds was in New York on his way to join his mother in Athens. Soon after his arrival on the other side his engagement to Princess Xenia, daughter of Grand Duke George of Greece, who followed his betrothal from that country, has been living in London. Prince Christopher and Princess Xenia will, it is said, remain in this city until the arrival of Prince Andrew. Then they will go to the more congenial climate of Palm Beach for the benefit of the health of Princess Anastasia.

Each day since their arrival Prince Christopher and Princess Anastasia have taken some part in the social life of New York. Yesterday they were guests at luncheon at the Ambassador Hotel, where they have an apartment. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith. On the night of January 9 Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer will give a dinner party to them in her home, East Seventy-third street.

Hamersley Fortune Stays in England by Beresford Will

Peer's Bequest to Kin Came From Income New Yorker Left His Widow.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

By the will of the late Lord Marcus Beresford, famous turfman and close friend of King Edward VII., who died December 16, the fortune which the late Lady William Beresford saved for the son, William Warren de la Poer Beresford, out of her life interest in the state of her first husband, Louis G. Hamersley of New York, remains in England.

In 1880 Miss Lillian Warren Price, daughter of Commodore Oliver Price, U. S. N., was married to Louis G. Hamersley of New York. He died in 1885 and left her the income for life from $20,000, or about $1,000,000 a year, with the provision that the principal should go to the Hamersley principal heirs. In 1895 Mrs. Hamersley married the eighth Duke of Marlborough, who died in 1902, and in 1905 the Duchess married Lord William Beresford, brother of Lord Marcus.

The new Lady Beresford spent each year practically her entire income from the Hamersley estate until 1937, when her son, William Warren de la Poer Beresford, was born, the only child of her third marriage. Then she began to save to provide for the boy. Lord William Beresford died in 1909, and Lady Beresford, when she died in 1908, left her entire fortune to her son, William Warren de la Poer Beresford, who is now 34 years of age. When he died in January, 1913, he bequeathed the entire fortune he had received from his American mother and his increment to Lord Marcus Beresford. According to the latter's will it now goes to his nephews and nieces, the two younger brothers and three sisters of the present Marquis Waterford. They are Lord William Beresford, Lord Hugh Beresford, Lord Tristram Beresford, Lady Blanche, Lady Katherine and Lady Bessie Beresford.

The bequest of Lord Marcus leaving all of his thoroughbred stud to King George marks the graceful ending of the dead peer's long sporting connection with the royal stables. Lord Marcus was a Derby winner. Though King George is no means an enthusiastic racing man as his father, he has maintained a stud, leaving almost its entire management to Lord Beresford.

The present Prince of Wales has not yet shown any intention of embarking on the racing game, reputedly because the royal private fortune from which such a hobby must be carried is a racing man's as his father, he has maintained a stud, leaving almost its entire management to Lord Beresford.
